

Segue

Online Literary Journal / Miami University Middletown

JAYNE FENTON KEANE

© 2007 Segue online literary journal
ISSN 1939-263X

All rights reserved. This publication may be freely distributed only in its entirety and without modification, and only for private use. It may not be sold for profit. Excerpts may only be reproduced and distributed with permission from the copyright owners, except in the case of brief quotations used for book reviews and interviews. The creative works published in Segue do not necessarily represent the views and opinions of its staff or of Miami University.

Volume 6 Issue 1 Fall 2007

Editor: Eric Melbye
Managing Editor: Michelle Lawrence

CONTENTS

Because You Said Forever	4
About the Author	5

Because You Said Forever

This roof always sounds as though someone's walking on it.
They were separated in local woods

found each other on a railroad bridge before one of the brothers slipped in and drowned.

True story from Cayuga Heights on the 5th June World Environment Day, 2004.

Walking there is forbidden now.

About the Author

Jayne Fenton Keane is the author of three poetry books, PhD candidate, the recipient of several major national awards and fellowships, and a poet who experiments across disciplines.

Jayne Fenton Keane on the Web:

www.poetinresidence.com/

www.madhattersreview.com/issue6/antepodean_keane1.shtml

www.poetrypoetry.com/Features/JayneFentonKeane/JayneFentonKeane.html

www.homestead.com/nzpoetsonline/JFK6.html