Information Literacy Instruction

Our team of librarians are passionate about teaching students how and where to search for information and how to think critically about what they find. We would like to partner with you in Fall 2018 to impact your students' success.

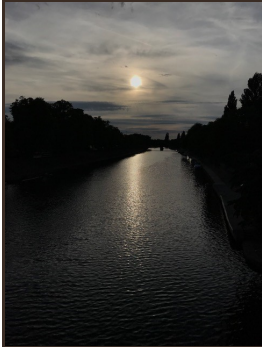

We offer instruction sessions in the classroom, embedded in your Canvas courses, or through research consultations. We provide relevant videos, tutorials, guides, and research modules that can be placed in your course. Contact your librarian today to collaborate in teaching, learning, and research.

Events at Gardner-Harvey Library this Semester

Info Bites Workshops

What could be better than learning about the Gardner-Harvey Library while you eat? During the first week of classes, Monday, August 27 through Friday, August 31, the library staff is offering 15 minute introductions to our building, resources, and services. We are already serving free coffee and tea all during that week, but you can also enjoy light refreshments if you take part in the Info Bites session.

Just stop by the library's InfoDesk during that week at one of these three times:
9:30am, 12:15pm, or 4:30pm (this last session is not offered on Friday)

You'll feel better equipped to study and do research for your assignments, and your taste buds will be satisfied!
